DETAILED ACTION

This action is in response to applicant's amendments submitted 22 February 2007.

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-11 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language:

3. Claims 1,3-11 and 31-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Causey, III et al (US 6,641,533).

Causey teaches a wearable health monitoring device (10) comprising a plurality of sensors (2150) to wirelessly transmit data, a sensor interface (2100), a memory (2204), a processor (1010) with a drug delivery device (400), a wireless transmitter (1026), and a viewing screen (2208). Fig 33.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Causey et al.

Regarding claim 2, Causey et al disclose a glucose, heart rate, and pulse sensors.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include a heart murmur, heart intensity, lung noise, occlusion, respiration rate, adrenal level, acetylcholine level and/or sodium levels sensors in order to provide the most complete picture of the patients physiological parameters to the user of the device.

3. Claim 34 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Causey as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Warkentin et al (US 6,471,645).

Causey does not disclose the use of a cellular communications unit. Warkentin discloses an implantable drug dispenser with a cellular communications unit (Col 12). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a cellular communications unit in order to expand the range of the device.

4. Claim 35 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Causey as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Chittum et al (US 5,577,510).

Causey does not teach the use of prerecorded messages. Chittum et al discloses a "portable and programmable biofeedback system which senses a physiological variable, such as heart rate, and both displays the physiological variable in a visual display in real time and activates and deactivates a user prerecorded voice-message upon reaching a user-programmed threshold value for the physiological variable measured." (Abstract)

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include prerecorded messages to automatically alert the patient or a healthcare provider and improve the safety of the device.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
